Sewing up

The top of the body is shaped to slightly tilt so that the King's head is sewn onto the body with a downward tilting angle. Stuff and sew on base if stand up figures are being made. Decorate the cloak (if desired) then sew the cloak firmly to the back of the neck. Sew the arms to the body coming towards each other so the King can hold his gift. Sew large beads firmly to body as part of the hands in the same skin tone as the head. Beads are not recommended for children. The King's wear different crowns and these are sewn to the head and decorated with beads and sequins if desired (see photo). If sewing sequins to simple (silver) crown, use a sewing needle and cotton and small seed beads to hold sequins on. The King's can also have shiny trim sewn around the cloak before they are sewn to the body. Sew the beards to the face and top of body, with a small gap for the mouth.
